

FORCES FOR WARMTH

Energy Advice for Service Personnel and their Families

National Energy Action (NEA), the national fuel poverty and energy efficiency charity is working with currently serving and ex-service personnel and their families to ensure they are able to stay warm in their homes and alleviate the impact of fuel poverty.

The project offers:

- Free training for frontline staff on identifying individuals who might be living in fuel poverty and the help and support available to them.
- Fun and informative information and engagement sessions to householders looking for support and advice in an informal setting.
- A direct referral service into energy advice provision delivered by NEA, with possible access to crisis funding where there is severe hardship.

If you work with currently serving personnel or ex-service personnel and/or their families and would like to get involved or would be interested in finding out more about the project please contact us.
