Nether Langwith is a village and civil parish in the Bassetlaw district of Nottinghamshire bordering Langwith in Derbyshire, England. Lying on the banks of the River Poulter, it is located 9 miles east of Chesterfield and 8 miles south west of Worksop. It is a lovely rural village with a village green at its heart. The green is quite unique as it is crossed by the River Poulter in two separate streams. The village hall is available to hire for private parties and events."
