

POV Case Study

Headline: Volunteering has helped me to feel valued

Before POV

POV Case Study had come to Junction Arts for work experience and had been very timid and shy. They were very quiet and wouldn't accept a drink or any snacks. They did their work and were very thankful for the opportunity. They did express and interest in doing more with Junction Arts.

Because of POV ...

Junction Arts were able to offer a weekly volunteering opportunity for them in the office, they come one morning a week now and help out with whatever we may need. They have also joined our Next Gen (POV) group and encourage friends to attend as well. They have become so much more confident and all staff have noticed the change. They are now much more chatty and accept a drink when they come in – which was a big deal for us!

Quote

“Next Gen is a place where I can explore my creativity and feel valued whilst doing it.”

Key outcomes and impact:

1. Their confidence and self-opinion/belief has majorly improved
2. They have volunteered at 3 other Junction Arts activities

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

